Please mark your calendars for September 29th from 5-7 p.m. The cost is $15 per person. Please use the enclosed form to indicate your interest in attending.

Hope to see you there!

Living History
During our Spring Living History program, over 300 third grade students from Fairbrook Elementary, Shaw Elementary, and Parkwood Elementary had the time of their lives as they immersed themselves in hands-on learning and making history come alive in a way that textbooks simply can’t replicate. The students participated in spinning wool, making butter, finger knitting, making rag dolls, quilting, and planting potatoes for the fall. They also learned about the early history of Beavercreek schools and experienced what a classroom was like in the 1800’s.

Our sincere thanks and appreciation to our wonderful volunteers: Lori Becker, Roxie Bell, Bobbie Carpenter, Jill Cobb, Donna Fitzgerald, Jennifer Harvey, Val Hoyer, Becky Jarvi, Denny Jarvi, Holly Linquist, Shannon Naik, Diane Phillips, Mike Self, Gerry Smalley, Janet Taylor, Jessica Thomas, Sonya Veta, Mark Wiley, and Ruth Wiley. Your support allows us to continue to serve the youth of Beavercreek each year.

We would also like to thank the students from the Educational Leadership Program at Beavercreek High School for volunteering and helping the students complete their chores.

Generous Donations
Fabric donation in memory of Verlon Caudill by his daughter proprietor of Quilts and Crochet by Jonna Burich.
Yarn donation from Ken and Debbie Koontz.
Wool, yarn and corn donation from Denny and Becky Jarvi
Thank you to Doris Mitchell for assembling our rag doll kits.

Volunteer Opportunities
Thanks to those of you who have volunteered for Living History in the past. Without our volunteers, the 3rd grade program would not be possible. Please mark your calendar and plan to help out with the Living History program in the fall. We have at least 17 classes of 3rd Graders who are eager to learn about life in our community in the 1800s.

Shared History
Helen and Her Frying Pan
Retold by Bobbie Carpenter

Many of us in Beavercreek have enjoyed a Greene County Park on Indian Ripple Road called the Narrows. It has wonderful hiking trails along the Little Miami River and a fine Nature Center. However, if we go back a few years, say around 1928, the Nature Center was a small farm house. The farmer who owned the land had built another larger house, so he was renting the smaller house to a young couple. Her name was Helen and his name was Bill. Helen’s younger brother, Robert, was also living there with them.

Robert, being the youngest of 6, had been living with his mother attending high school. When his mother’s health began to fail, Robert quit school and got a job at one of the many Dayton factories. Someone showed him a blueprint and he was fascinated. It probably effected his future career choice. Robert, although working fulltime, went back to school at what he always called the “Y”. He had been started many years ago by a man named David Sinclair. When Robert’s mother passed away, his sister asked if he wanted to join them in Beavercreek.

I know that the house had electricity and I think indoor plumbing but Helen cooked on a cast iron wood-burning stove. The house was in a beautiful spot, overlooking the Little Miami River and the covered bridge that crossed it. The house was closer to “Indian Riffle” Road than it is now. You can still see spots of macadam* on one of the hiking trails.

Helen and Bill had a few chickens and a cow which Bill had to milk every morning before he left for work. According to Robert, sometimes the cow was not in the mood to be milked that early. This made it necessary for Bill to chase it around the house to get it into the barn to be milked. Bill had been in the Navy where he learned some new words … very colorful ones!

One morning after Bill and Robert finished a hearty breakfast which had been cooked on Helen’s cast iron stove, they went off to work. Each in their used Model A Ford.

At that time, many people did not lock their doors, especially if they were home. There was a man living in the area whose name was Harry. Harry did odd jobs for people. Bill had hired him on occasion so Helen knew him. Harry added to his income by doing some semi-pro boxing. Harry knew that Helen was alone during the day. He’d seen Bill and Robert leave for work. Harry slipped into the house using the unlocked door and crept up behind Helen. Now, I don’t think that Harry was the smartest man in the area. Helen was not very tall. If Harry had grabbed her at the elbows, he would have pinned her arms. Instead he grabbed her at the shoulder. As soon as Helen felt someone she swung around with the HOT frying pan and whopped Harry in the head. Obviously, Harry let go. Helen was very, very angry! She proceeded to pound Harry around the head and shoulders. Harry dashed out of the door. It was a good thing it wasn’t locked. He raced down Indian Riffle with Helen and her frying pan in full pursuit. Fortunately for him, he outran her.

Helen stomped back to her house. They may or may not have had a phone. In any case, she did not call the Greene County Sheriff’s office. Helen was still angry when Bill and Robert got home. However, Bill thought it was funny and commented, "Hey, what if you had hit him in the nose? He would have bled all over the floor. What a mess that would have made!" Robert kept very quiet.

About a month later they read in the Dayton Newspaper that Harry had done the same thing to a lady in Dayton. He had raped her and stolen some things. She also knew who he was. He was caught, arrested, tried and sent to prison.

Helen and Bill lived in the farmhouse until Bill passed away. Helen moved to Dayton. She kept in touch with her family, Robert and his wife, Jeanette. She also was good friends with a niece, Dottie. Robert continued school and became a tool processing engineer. He worked for Frigidaire throughout WW II designing machines that made airplane parts. Robert and Jeanette built a house in Knollwood, one of the early plats in Beavercreek. Their two daughters both graduated from Beavercreek HS. Years later Robert and Jeanette’s granddaughter and grandson graduated from BHS. Last spring a great-grandson graduated from BHS and next spring another great-grandson will graduate from BHS.

So, what ever happened to Harry? Hmm, well no one really knows for sure. He certainly would have been released from prison. One thing is fairly certain ... he would NOT have come back to Beavercreek. Beavercreek women had frying pans and they KNOW HOW TO USE THEM!

*macadam: a method of road construction using compacted layers of small stones. It was pioneered by John Loudon Macadam around 1820.
